

Everything In Its Right Place by Paul J Lane

Jane and Cristian sit side by side at a railway station near a railway track.

JANE

Do you think you'll settle in quickly when you arrive?

CRISTIAN

I'm not really sure, my time here has been,,,

Jane smiles which Cristian notices from the corner of his eye

CRISTIAN

Connected.

Cristian returns the smile whilst noticing an old couple laughing with each other on the other side of the railway track.

CRISTIAN

Timeless.

JANE

Yes they are.

CRISTIAN

I wonder how they met.

JANE

Probably in a place full of people but in one unexpected timeless gaze, they both realised that their future had arrived.

Cristian moves his body towards Jane; she stays looking forward but still engaged with his energy.

CRISTIAN

Everything was in its right place.

There is a 10 second delay whilst Jane considers Cristians comment

She turns towards him; they both engage in a timeless gaze.

JANE

Stay?

Cristian thinks for a moment, confused but liberated

Jane tilts her head with expectancy.

CUT.
